The European Youth Event (EYE2021) will run virtual activities from 4 October (EYE week), leading up to the main event on 8 and 9 October 2021, offering a variety of virtual, hybrid and in-person activities in Strasbourg, co-created with partners, youth organisations, participants themselves and many other institutions.

EYE WEEK

Monday, 4 October - Thursday 7 October 2021

Leading up to EYE2021, the EYE week will feature online activities that will help you understand how the European Parliament works, what the new cycle of Erasmus+ programme has in store for you and how to develop an idea into a sharp policy proposal. You’ll also be able to enjoy some great music, powered by EuropaVox. Join us for these activities here and take a moment to discover the event platform, the main EYE programme and meet and chat with other EYE participants!

The following activities will be featured during the EYE week:

- EYE week opening
- Discover the EP by the Visits and Seminars Unit of the European Parliament
- A cook-along activity
- Multilingualism by the Interpretation Service & Translation Service of the European Parliament
- Develop a sharp policy proposal by International Youth Think Tank
- The new Erasmus+ programme by Erasmus Student Network

MAIN EVENT

Friday, 8 October 2021

10:00 - 10:30 Opening ceremony in the EYE Village in front of the European Parliament
10:00 - 11:30 Opening plenary session in the hemicycle of the European Parliament
10:00 - 18:30 Panels, interactive and artistic activities inside the European Parliament and online

Guide to EYE activities
EYE offers a wide variety of activities: panels and workshops with a moderated debate between speakers, MEPs and other decision makers, smaller interactive workshops, sports activities, games and role-play games, artistic performances, guided tours, and interactive stands.

Activities will take place inside the European Parliament building and outside in the EYE Village. And, as this edition is hybrid, we will have a rich set of activities taking place virtually on a dedicated event platform. Furthermore, for this edition, 3 hosts will guide you through the entire event.

To help navigate through the programme each activity has one or more thematic tags:

- #ART
- #CULTURE
- #DEMOCRACY

Some of the activities have been grouped in two tracks:

CONFERENCE TRACK
Features activities related to the Conference on the Future of Europe.

GREEN TRACK
Features environment-related activities and gather ideas in anticipation of COP26 in November 2021.
This track is co-created with the EYE2021 Green partner, Generation Climate Europe.

THE FUTURE IS OURS
LET’S SHAPE IT TOGETHER!

The future belongs to young people - and the Conference on the Future of Europe is your chance to say how you imagine that future to look like! What is it you want to tell decision makers? How do you see the future of Europe and the world? Which role do you want to play in it? Which rights, freedoms and responsibilities do you wish to have? And what is the role of the EU in this? Come and meet leaders from the European Parliament and the European Commission who are here to hear from you about your ideas for Europe! Listen to their vision for a common future and share your own at this opening plenary and throughout EYE2021!

DIGITAL DEMOCRACIES

THREAT OR OPPORTUNITY?

Online propaganda, echo chambers, disinformation, bots, hate speech, data misuse, political polarisation. The impact of technology and especially social media on democracies has increasingly been painted as a doom and gloom scenario. Are algorithms defining public discourse? Does social media favour extremist content and fake news over facts? Who is influencing what I am influenced by? How is my data being used? Are democratic values undermined by technology? Or could virtual parliaments, online voting and consultation processes make for more democratic societies? Can e-democracy be a way to encourage more young people to make their voices heard? Is online participation a tool to lower boundaries and increase accessibility to public discourse? How can trust in democracies be safeguarded in the digital age?

FIGHTING DISCRIMINATION

TOWARDS A MORE INCLUSIVE SOCIETY

The shock wave that spread across the world after the murder of George Floyd has fortified the urge to fight discriminations. COVID-19 amplified already existing discriminations and structural inequalities as the pandemic affected all of us but not all of us equally. Domestic violence increased, women often fought underpaid at the forefront of the pandemic and in many countries minorities were disproportionally affected by COVID-19. How can we fight such structural inequalities and reduce discrimination? How are these inequalities related to each other? How can we ensure people are taken care of regardless of their gender, colour of skin, sexual orientation, age, religion, or ability? How can we celebrate differences that make us a vibrant and diverse society? How can we make our democratic societies more inclusive so each and everyone can reach their full potential?

COVID-19 has significantly changed the way we work and study and how we think about meaningful and relevant careers. But it has also left some of us unemployed or with an income loss. Young people are disproportionately affected as the pandemic has disrupted their education and training, and made it harder to find a job and start a career. How has COVID-19 impacted young people and how can the EU help in solving the high youth unemployment rate in many Member States? How is the labour market looking now? What kind of jobs are meaningful, and what skills do we need? And what has changed about the way we work? Can we expect more flexibility now that companies and organisations have gotten used to teleworking or will we return to the classic 9-to-5 model?

MIND THE GAP
SOCIAL INEQUALITIES ON THE RISE?
For the past decades, social inequalities have risen dramatically, increasing the gap between rich and poor. The COVID-19 pandemic has added to already existing economic disparities and showed us that the most essential jobs are often the most precarious ones. How can we guarantee a decent income for everyone? How can we address globalisation, technological change, skill mismatches and inadequate social and economic policies? Should we focus on redistributing existing wealth by taxing the rich, rather than relying on philanthropy? Is unconditional basic income a possible solution? What about young people whose future job opportunities are impaired by the economic crisis? How can we recover from this crisis with everyone on board?

NEXT GENERATION EU
ECONOMIC RECOVERY FROM COVID-19
In July 2020, after a marathon meeting, EU leaders agreed on a budget and a COVID-19 recovery fund called Next Generation EU. This budget and recovery fund were called historic by decision-makers and newspapers alike. But what makes it historic? Is it the fact that the European Union will be able to borrow on the markets to finance Next Generation EU? What does that even mean, ‘borrowing on the markets’? What's the role of the European Parliament in budget discussions? And what has the rule of law to do with it? What are the spending priorities of the EU? Are we spending enough money on things that matter to young people, like education and mobility programmes?

POST COVID-19

UNITED IN HEALTH?

More than a year after the COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted life as we knew it, the world has a vaccine! Vaccines are one of the greatest public health achievements in history and have saved countless lives. However, in recent years, the anti-vaccine movement has received increased attention. How is the COVID-19 vaccine perceived so far? Are anti-vaccine movements and fake news affecting its general acceptance? How can public authorities, responsible for vaccination campaigns, counteract these tendencies and build trust among their citizens? Surely, the EU can play a role in this, especially since the pandemic has restarted the debate whether to give the EU a stronger role in the area of health. Is it time to finally build a genuine European Health Union and have a solid system that protects all European citizens?

Q&A WITH 2020 SAKHAROV PRIZE LAUREATE

SVIATLANA TSIKHANOUSKAYA

The 2020 Sakharov Prize for Freedom of Thought was awarded to the democratic opposition in Belarus, represented by the Coordination Council, an initiative of brave women and political and civil society figures. What happened during the last election in Belarus? What are the protesters fighting for? What is the European Parliament doing to defend human rights and what is the meaning of awarding the Sakharov Prize to this cause? How can young Europeans support Belarusian human rights defenders? Join 2020 Sakharov Prize laureate Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya for this Q&A session and get inspired by stories of the courageous democratic opposition in Belarus!

OLEG SENTSOV

In 2018, the Ukrainian film director and human rights activist Oleg Sentsov received the Sakharov Prize for Freedom of Thought after being released from jail as part of a prisoner exchange deal between Russia and Ukraine. He was imprisoned for protesting Russia’s de facto annexation of his native Crimea and participation in Euromaidan revolution in Kyiv, 2013-2014. What happened in 2014 in Crimea? How has the situation developed since then? What is the meaning of the European Parliament awarding the Sakharov Prize to this cause and how does it defend human rights? Join this Q&A session with 2018 Sakharov Prize laureate Oleg Sentsov and find out more about him and the approximately 70 Ukrainian citizens illegally arrested and given long prison sentences by the Russian occupation forces in the Crimean peninsula!

THE OTHER CRISIS
HAS THE CLIMATE AND NATURE CRISIS BEEN DROWNED OUT?

While the world’s attention has been monopolised by the COVID-19 pandemic, a more threatening crisis continues to unfold around us. In both cases, scientists are declaring a ‘case of emergency’ but it seems like decision-makers are focusing their attention on the Covid-19 pandemic. Can we still get off the current path towards 3-4°C increase in global temperatures that leads to food insecurity, droughts, mass extinction of species and that might facilitate future pandemics through biodiversity loss? How do we address the systemic causes of the climate crisis and rethink our economic system for a just and green transition? Who has the power and responsibility to interrupt this deadly status quo, is it the EU institutions, countries, corporations, consumers, or climate activists around the globe? How can the EU and the global efforts leading to COP26 help to refocus the world’s attention to help nature and humans thrive together?

YOUNG LEADERS AS DRIVERS OF PEACE

Interested in conflict prevention and peacebuilding? This debate will look at the Youth, Peace and Security policy from a youth perceptive. The panellists will be young peacebuilders from Europe, Africa and the Mediterranean, some of them coming from regions afflicted by protracted conflicts, and young Members of the European Parliament. Six years ago, the United Nations Security Council adopted its resolution 2250, which is the first international policy framework that recognises the positive role of youth in preventing and resolving conflict, countering violent extremism and building peace. This event will be an opportunity to look back at what has been done so far but also to reflect on what still needs to be addressed in the years to come. Join us and have your say!

PERCEPTION OF MIGRATION
THE LINE BETWEEN COMPASSION AND FEAR

The fear of foreign ‘invasions’, loss of our cultural identities, competition for jobs and an impact on the welfare state poisons the debate around migration. It is one of the most contentious issues in European politics, challenging governments and parliaments alike. Though these issues are linked with migration itself, there is a much more urgent and pressing problem: the moral and legal duty to save people at risk crossing the Mediterranean in precarious boats, not fit for sea travel. We have seen a backlash against the NGOs saving lives in the Mediterranean, including criminal prosecutions. Since the beginning of the COVID-19 crisis, there has been a reduction in the sea crossing of migrants. Images of overcrowded boats sinking in the Mediterranean, improvised refugee camps and chaotic crowds of people around fences, border controls, or soup kitchens became less regular, overshadowed by the overwhelming pandemic media coverage. With the pandemic increasingly under control, the issue might come back to the centre of political debate soon. Many of us feel empathy or compassion, but many others feel fear, worry or disdain. What should we do? How can we be in line with EU law and its founding values of respect for human rights and solidarity? How can politicians and journalists talk about migration in Europe based on facts and data? How can the EU avoid that citizens exercising their rights and acting in accordance with EU values are criminalised when assisting migrants? What shall we as European citizens do when faced with such situations? Join a Member of the European Parliament and member of the IUVENTA crew Miguel Duarte to debate the problem of precarious sea crossings and the duty to save migrants at imminent risk.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND DEMOCRACY IN FACE OF RISING AUTHORITARIANISM
REPRESSION AND TORTURE AGAINST ACTIVISTS

During the last years, the world witnessed a worrying trend of democracy shrinking and authoritarian regimes rising. Democracy and human rights activists are on the frontline of the fight for democracy and rule of law, and they are the first targets of harsh repression by dictators who refuse to respect the democratically expressed will of the people. The European Parliament stands for democracy and human rights, and supports the brave activists who risk everything to make their societies free and fair, sometimes sacrificing their own life and freedom. Two examples of that are the democratic oppositions of Venezuela and Belarus, to which the European Parliament awarded the Sakharov Prize for Freedom of Thought, respectively in 2017 and 2020. Among the opposition in both countries, young activists were particularly engaged in protesting against repression: Lorent Saleh, in Venezuela, and Stsiapan Putsila in Belarus. Their stories shed light on the harsh lived reality of human rights defenders around the world and the way authoritarian regimes suppress their freedoms. In a debate moderated by a Member of the European Parliament, Lorent Saleh and Stsiapan Putsila will share their stories of facing repression, their resistance and ongoing pursuit of freedom and democracy.

WHITE TORTURE
UNDERGROUND POETRY

What does isolation do to you? What does white torture do to you? Imprisoned for defending the freedom of thought and human rights in Venezuela, Sakharov Prize 2017 Laureate Lorent Saleh found out. Starring himself, Lorent will show what goes through the mind of a political prisoner licked into an underground prison cell with 24-hour white light. He will illuminate what it means to be unjustly taken from family and friends, cut off from the world and subjected to harsh psychological punishment. Lorent’s story is a story of suffering and despair, but also one of hope, resistance and the fight for freedom and democracy.

WHY SEX EDUCATION MATTERS

Talking about sex education makes some people uncomfortable. Why should that be? It is so important to talk about it! Michaela and Valéria, founders of Sexuálna Výchova, are teaching young people what they could not learn at school. In this intimate session, Michaela and Valéria will discuss why young people should know more about sex and how this will help their sexual and reproductive health.

BRANDING YOUR DIGITAL SELF

In the past few months, people had to exchange their school or work desks for their kitchen table and truly explore what it means to be digital. Did you find your digital self? And what did that look like on social media? Are you a GIF goddess or a ruler of Reels? Are you not sure yet but want to know more? Then come take a peek behind the curtain and see the faces working on the social media accounts of the Parliament! Strike a pose with our Instagram filter or Facebook frame, use a GIF from one of our followers and explore Facebook with one of our passionate Together.eu volunteers. Are you ready to use your social networks like a pro? Join this session and brand your digital self!

SUSTAINABLE AND FAIR
RETHINKING THE EU TRADE AGREEMENT MODEL
Droughts, floods, unlivable temperatures and failing crops: the world’s poorest and most vulnerable are most likely to suffer the consequences of the climate crisis. It is more urgent than ever to explore the structural links between climate justice and trade. But is the EU attentive enough to these links? The current impasse of the EU-Mercosur agreement shows that the current EU trade agreement model does not sufficiently consider the social and environmental impact of its trade agreements. In February 2021, the European Commission launched a trade policy review, which will be complemented by a consultation on how to approach the Trade & Sustainable Development Chapters in EU trade agreements in the second half of 2021. So how can the EU better implement the Green Deal aims into their trade policy? How do we make sure no one gets left behind? How do we make EU trade agreements socially and environmentally sustainable? Join this session to discuss these issues with EU policy makers and make your voice heard!

EU DEAR PROGRAMME
YOUTH FOR GLOBAL CHANGE

How can we ensure the commitment of European citizens to global justice and sustainable lifestyles? How can we support global change and development through our own individual behaviours, community habits, national policies? How can we act on global issues such as migration, climate change, inequalities and others that impact citizens across the globe? If given the opportunity and the means, young people can be key agents of change on global issues. The EU Development Education and Awareness Raising (DEAR) Programme supports organisations and local authorities that work with young people to highlight global interdependencies and to get involved in global change. Join this workshop to discover more! You can co-create an artwork with images and perceptions of migration, participate in a quiz about the Sustainable Development Goals or learn how your eating habits impact the health of the planet. GREENING OUR LIVES
HOW BIG IS YOUR CARBON FOOTPRINT?
All types of human activities, whether industrial, commercial or recreational, emit various amounts of carbon. How many of us are aware of these amounts? How many of us know our exact carbon footprint? If we were more aware of the impact of our individual activities, and the associated carbon emissions, would we have a clearer idea of how to change our behaviour? Are we able to make adjustments without changing our lives drastically? Although systemic political change is needed to mitigate the effects of global warming, we must not undermine the importance of individual actions – and youth can lead the way on this! Built around a game, this interactive session will engage with young participants to showcase how every action that reduces our individual carbon footprint contributes positively to reducing the global carbon emissions. Making a difference is within everyone’s reach!

BECOME AN ANTI-RACIST ALLY

In 2019, after the murder of George Floyd, months of protest all around Europe, pressure from anti-racism NGOs and the European Parliament, the European Commission finally published its first-ever Anti-Racism Action Plan. The Commission confirmed that institutional and systemic racism exists and affects all areas of the lives of racialized communities, Black people, Roma communities, and Muslim communities. But is the Anti-Racism Action Plan enough to eradicate racism and empower those marginalized groups? What is the role of the media in creating our biases? Is the Action Plan enough to help us tackle the fragmentation of our societies and the idea of us vs them? What have we really learned from the George Floyd murder and the European Black lives matter movement? Racism is everyone’s problem and responsibility. What are you doing to stop racism in your daily life? In this workshop, we will discuss the state of play of the action plan and share stories of how racism impacts lives. STEP IN FOR INCLUSION

Although the benefits of exercise are widely recognized, participation of disabled youth in sports falls behind that of able-bodied children. There is a need to increase participation of young people with disabilities as a way to improve physical and mental wellbeing as well as to favor a process of social inclusion which benefits the entire society. Together with other partners we implemented the “COMEIN” and “Step in for Inclusion” projects, creating a toolkit aiming to provide sport and youth workers with activities and recommendations for working with young people with disabilities. Are you curious to learn more about these tools? Do you want to help us test, promote and improve these tools through gathering feedback on their applicability and potential upscaling in youth and physical education policies? INDEPENDENT LIVING

SO BASIC AND YET SO IMPOSSIBLE

Living independently is challenging for most young people, but for persons with disabilities it is even more so. We have to gain our independence. Over-protective parents, the difficulty to find accessible accommodation, financial instability, necessary services only being accessible in institutions.... These are but some of the barriers faced by young persons with disabilities. What is independent living? What are the challenges faced by young people with disabilities to become independent? What does the EU do to support independent living for persons with disabilities? Join us and find out! An engaging discussion is going to take place with young persons with disabilities, living independently or in residences and with a Member of the European Parliament who themselves has a disability.

THE IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON EDUCATION
MAKING REMOTE LEARNING SUCCESSFUL

The COVID-19 pandemic has affected educational systems worldwide, leading to the near-total closures of schools, universities and colleges. This has not only caused an unprecedented use of technology in education and training, but also trials, errors and uncertainties for everyone. This format is not just a short-term issue, but can also have long-term consequences for the affected cohorts and are likely to increase inequalities. As part of the new Council Recommendation on online and distance learning for education, aiming to make distance, online and blended learning effective, inclusive and engaging by the end of 2021: What can be done to mitigate these negative impacts? How can we make remote learning successful? What kind of investment is need in digital, pedagogical, social and emotional competences?

Fast fashion poses a series of threats to the welfare of humans and our planet: local companies are driven out of business, workers face human rights abuses, and monocultures established to grow materials drive biodiversity loss. The fast fashion industry is also accountable for a substantial amount of the world’s greenhouse gas emissions. How can we address all of these issues while still providing clothes at an affordable price? How can we promote the circular economy in our communities, give back to local organizations, and keep money in our home towns rather than giving it to mega-corporations in foreign countries? YOUNG EUROPEAN STORIES FROM TODAY AND 2030

HOW YOUTH PARTICIPATION CAN CHANGE THE CONFERENCE ON THE FUTURE OF EUROPE

The European Union is built on seven decades of history. Now, with the Conference on the Future of Europe, we’re entering a new decade, our decade. In our 2030s Diary room, you will have the opportunity to look back into the 2020s and understand the events that will shape the future of EU. What do we want our future to look like? What are our priorities? Climate change, migration, European democracy? How can we express our young voice within the conference? Together, we will discuss our priorities and collect them as parts of a walk-in exhibition side by side with European historic moments. The EU has always been history in the making - and it’s ours to create.

YOUTH PAINTING THE IMAGINED FUTURE OF EUROPE

Policy, political platform priorities, Conference on the Future of Europe - how best to bring your ideas to the European level and make them heard when there are so many options? And how can the work of decision makers following the Conference on the Future of Europe actually influence our daily life as young Europeans? In this workshop, you are invited to think about the pivotal moments in history that could have changed the outcome of our future Europe. A better response to climate change? A head start in European integration? To which policy areas do those moments relate and how could they change our Europe? Write your vision for Europe on a postcard for your future self – we will send it to you after the EYE!

2030 DIARIES - LOOKING BACK AT THE DECADE OF THE CONFERENCE

Take a trip in time and jump into the shoes of future young Europeans in the decade after the Conference on the Future of Europe! How will young people be impacted by the decisions taken today? Ten years from now, the European Union is envisioned to be more prosperous, more sustainable and more equal than ever, following an agenda of ambitious change. Enter a 2030s diary room and share your vision of the daily life of future young Europeans. How did the European Green deal succeed in reversing the nefarious effects of climate change, if it did at all? What about plastic? Has it finally been banished from the European market? And what about digitalisation and the effects of Next Generation EU? Note your ideas on a postcard to your future self – we will send it to you after the EYE!

HOW TO BE AN INTERNATIONAL ACTIVIST IN AN AGE OF ISOLATION

Young people across Europe are living through an age of political and social isolation. The Covid-19 pandemic has cut young Europeans off from their peers across the continent, and European leaders are turning away from one another. But at the same time, young people across Europe are facing shared challenges: the threat of climate change, a jobs crisis, spiralling living costs and the erosion of democracy to name a few. How can youth activist groups bounce back from Covid-19 and tackle these problems head-on? Has the pandemic revealed any opportunities for activists? And how can we ensure young people from non-EU countries play a role in shaping the future of our continent?
